

Jujutsu Kaisen

Season 1

Light Novel Adaptation by Dharun

Table of Contents

Episode 1: Ryomen Sukuna	Page 3
Episode 2: For Myself	Page 6
Episode 3: Girl of Steel	Page 8
Episode 4: Curse Womb Must Die	Page 10
Episode 5: Curse Womb Must Die II	Page 12
Episode 6: After Rain	Page 14
Episode 7: Assault	Page 16
Episode 8: Boredom	Page 18
Episode 9: Small Fry and Reverse Retribution	Page 20
Episode 10: Idle Transfiguration	Page 22
Episode 11: Narrow-Minded	Page 24
Episode 12: To You, Someday	Page 26
Episode 13: Tomorrow	Page 28
Episode 14: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event – Group Battle ①	Page 30
Episode 15: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event – Group Battle ①	Page 32
Episode 16: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event – Group Battle ②	Page 34
Episode 17: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event – Group Battle ③	Page 36
Episode 18: Sage	Page 38
Episode 19: Black Flash	Page 40
Episode 20: Nonstandard	Page 41
Episode 21: Jujutsu Koshien	Page 43
Episode 22: The Origin of Blind Obedience	Page 45
Episode 23: The Origin of Blind Obedience - 2	Page 47
Episode 24: Accomplices	Page 48

Episōdē 1: Ryōmen Ōukunab

Prologue

Moonlight glimmers across quiet streets, lingering on the weathered stone walls of Sugisawa Third High School. The peace of dusk is a fragile mask; beneath it, ancient energies slumber—waiting, hungry, unseen.

Scene 1 — The Track Field at Sundown

{Yuji Itadori — Teenage boy with wild pink hair and keen brown eyes, remarkably athletic, but more focused on the Occult Research Club than sports. Courageous, kind-hearted, and loyal to a fault.}

Yuji rounds the track with unusual speed, classmates cheering with friendly disbelief. He launches the shot put like a cannon; his teacher and clubmates {Sasaki — Tall, sharp-witted club president, glasses askew, enthusiasm unchecked.} and {Iguchi — Portable flashlight, quick to startle, steadfast friend.} gawk.

Yuji jokes, “Maybe ghosts are helping me!”

Scene 2 — A Grandfather’s Edict

{Wasuke Itadori — Elderly man, frail but proud, with a voice softened by regret, Yuji’s only family.}

Yuji sits beside Wasuke’s hospital bed, surrounded by the cold glow of monitors and the faint scent of antiseptic.

Wasuke, voice raspy: “Use your power to help people, Yuji. Don’t die alone, like me.”

His hand falls limp; the machines sigh as Yuji grips it, swallowing pain and loneliness. He stays silent, but his resolve hardens.

Scene 3 — The Occult Research Club

After school, Yuji and his club investigate a mysterious, talisman-wrapped artifact—a fetid, blackened finger rumored to be “haunted.”

Sasaki: “Should we unseal it?”

Iguchi shivers. “Bad things happen when you break a talisman...”

A low pulse, almost a voice, ripples from the object. Unseen, darkness gathers.

Scene 4 — Megumi Fushiguro's Warning

{Megumi Fushiguro — Stoic Jujutsu High student, spiky indigo-black hair, sharp gaze, skilled in summoning shikigami—spirit beasts born of shadow. Focused, analytical, and quietly brave.}

Megumi intercepts Yuji outside, urgency flaring.

“There’s dangerous energy here. Did you touch the object?”

Yuji, sensing real fear, remembers the club’s plans and rushes to the clubroom.

Scene 5 — The Seal Breaks, Curses Attack

Inside, the talisman is torn away—inky shadows leak from the finger. Suddenly, eyeless curses swarm, filling the room with blinding dread.

Yuji arrives as {Ryomen Sukuna — The King of Curses. At first, only a petrified finger, radiating venomous energy. Ancient villain, power sealed by sorcerers centuries ago.}

cackles in Yuji’s mind, a sinister presence clawing at reality.

The curses lash at Sasaki and Iguchi. Megumi bursts in, summoning white wolf shikigami—ethereal, silent, deadly. Yuji grabs desks, smashing spirits left and right, but they reform, drawn to the finger.

Scene 6 — The Desperate Choice

A massive curse lunges for Iguchi. Yuji hears Sukuna’s whisper—“Eat. Become mine.” Without hesitation, he swallows the finger. Hot agony floods his body.

Suddenly, Yuji’s face twists, Sukuna’s marks bloom on his skin; his laughter chills the shadows.

In seconds, every weak curse vaporizes.

Megumi confronts him, but Yuji’s own consciousness battles with Sukuna’s—a duel of wills, with Yuji fighting back for control.

Scene 7 — Satoru Gojo’s Entrance

{Satoru Gojo — Legendary teacher and sorcerer, tall with snowy white hair, always wearing a black blindfold. Effortlessly charming, unrivaled in power, sly and eccentric.}

Gojo arrives at dawn's first light, radiating power and casual authority.

Gojo: "Let's test your control, Sukuna."

With dazzling speed, Gojo incapacitates Yuji-Sukuna, barely breaking a sweat. Yuji regains command of his body, exhausted but alive. Gojo grins, "You're interesting, Itadori. Want to meet my school?"

Ending Scene — Into a New World

Later, Yuji stands beside Gojo overlooking the city. His life and fate, once ordinary, now belong to the world of jujutsu sorcerers—a world where death lurks behind every choice, but hope persists.

He remembers Wasuke's last words and makes his own vow: protect others, never stand alone.

Episode 2: For Myself

Prologue

Early morning fog hangs in the streets of Tokyo. A new chapter for Yuji Itadori begins—not as an ordinary high schooler, but as host to something most fear. The world of jujutsu divides life from death by a razor's edge, and Yuji has no choice but to walk it.

Scene 1 — Arrival at Jujutsu High

Satoru Gojo welcomes Yuji to the imposing gates of Tokyo Jujutsu High. The campus is walled in ancient stone, adorned with protective talismans humming softly in the wind.

Inside, Yuji is led to the center hall where he will meet those who decide if he lives or dies.

Scene 2 — Principal Yaga's Judgment

{Masamichi Yaga — Stout, grizzled principal with a stern face and a heart that believes in second chances. His deep voice commands respect, and he carries the burden of hundreds of students past and present.}

Yaga gazes at Yuji with sharp, assessing eyes.

“You carry Sukuna—the thing that destroyed generations. By law, I should execute you.”

Yuji’s heart pounds. Gojo, standing beside him, offers a wisp of reassurance.

“And yet... If you help us collect all of Sukuna’s fingers, maybe a life like yours can mean something. What do you say?”

Yuji remembers Wasuke’s dying words, friends almost lost, and finds his answer in resolve: “Let me help. If it means saving others, that’s enough, even if I die in the end.”

Yaga nods once. A path forward opens.

Scene 3 — Dorm Room, Quiet Resolve

Yuji receives a sparse dorm room: bed, small desk, and a single window. He sits on the mattress, Sukuna’s mark tingling faintly on his skin in the evening gloom.

He wonders if this is bravery or recklessness—but his forearm is steady and his heart, for once, feels right. Above him, Gojo leaves a note:

“Training tomorrow. Rest up, you’ll need it!”

Scene 4 — Meeting Nobara Kugisaki

{Nobara Kugisaki — Slim, chin-length brown hair with orange flecks, eyes like sharpened amber. Fierce will, unflinching honesty, her nails and hammer always close to hand. Driven by a need to escape small-town judgment and prove her strength in Tokyo.}

On the training grounds, Yuji stumbles into Nobara tossing nails at a straw doll, watching each one sink perfectly into its mark. She sizes him up instantly, smirking.

“You’re Sukuna’s vessel? Thought you’d have more scars.”

Yuji stammers; Nobara swings her hammer, “Keep up.”

Gojo enters, radiating delight. “You two will face your first assignment together!”

Scene 5 — First Field Mission: Apartment Horror

Gojo escorts Yuji and Nobara into the city. Their test: cleanse a cursed apartment complex where whispers warn of deaths and disappearances.

Inside, darkness reigns. Old mold coats the walls, and the cloying sense of fear changes the air.

Yuji and Nobara fight through curses—Yuji wielding pure force, Nobara driving nails and invoking curse energy with the poise of a veteran. They rescue a frightened child trapped by a monstrous spirit.

Together, they defeat the curse, battered but victorious.

Gojo arrives as the sun dips below the city’s horizon. He gives a proud smirk, “Not bad. Jujutsu High is lucky to have you both.”

Ending Scene — Quiet Triumph

In the break room, Yuji and Nobara share instant noodles, still catching their breath. Their worlds have changed forever, but for now—there’s camaraderie, a sense of belonging, a shared goal.

Yuji gazes out his window, heart quietly firm. In the world of jujutsu sorcerers, he will help save others—even if it means risking everything.

Episode 3: Girl of Steel

Prologue

Rain washes over the Tokyo skyline, leaving the air brisk as Jujutsu High's newest sorcerers awaken to the uncertain promise of their second day. Friendship, rivalry, and the harsh lessons of cursed combat wait at every turn.

Scene 1 — Morning at Training Grounds

Gojo Satoru convenes Yuji and Nobara beneath maple trees, their boughs scattering showers of fresh green. Megumi Fushiguro joins silently, nodding in greeting as Gojo announces, "Team work drill: You three, together. Remember—curses don't care about a bad mood."

Scene 2 — City Assignment: Spirits in the Shadows

The trio—two rookies and a seasoned strategist—walk together through busy streets, boarded-up windows and faded signs hinting at the apartment's tragic reputation.

Inside, tiles clatter beneath their shoes. Yuji cracks a nervous joke but stands ready. Megumi sweeps his gaze for spiritual residue. Nobara rolls her hammer across her knuckles, calm but coiled.

Scene 3 — Curses Attack: Proof of Will

A grotesque spirit bursts from the darkness, twitching with too many eyes and slashed mouths. Megumi summons a shadow dog, which lunges and pulls at the curse's limbs.

Yuji charges in, fists blazing. Nobara drives nails with pinpoint accuracy—her curse resonance vibrates through the hall.

Together, they carve a path through the supernatural onslaught, but tension mounts as the curses grow in number and ferocity.

Scene 4 — Nobara's Past Emerges

As they regroup behind a battered sofa, Nobara flashes back—a countryside girl running against wheat fields, village boys jeering her for loving Tokyo. She watched her friend vanish after defying tradition. In that moment, she swore to choose her future and prove her worth in the city.

Scene 5 — The Final Test: Innocent in Danger

Screams echo from a distant room—a young girl, eyes wide with terror, is trapped behind a monstrous spirit. Nobara rushes in, face set with steel.

“Look at me, not the monster. You’re safe now.”

She hurls a nail straight into the curse’s core, channeling every hurt and hope from her past.

Spirit dissolves, releasing the child. Yuji and Megumi flank her, Megumi quietly proud.

Scene 6 — Reconnecting Over Rice Crackers

After the mission, Gojo treats them to snacks in the school’s lounge. Yuji laughs at Nobara’s dry wit; Megumi admits she’s braver than anyone he’s met.

The rain outside fades to sunlight, and the first true sense of team settles over them.

Ending Scene — Steel and Solace

Nobara sits alone later, staring out across campus. She remembers her promise—not just to Tokyo, but to herself. With every fight, every friend, every won or lost battle, she forges a future no one can steal.

Episode 4: Curse Womb Must Die

Prologue

Thunder reverberates through the hospital walls in Saitama as three young sorcerers answer an urgent call: a curse womb is about to give birth. This is the night where bravery and terror will test their very limits.

Scene 1 — The Gathering Storm

Gojo Satoru stands with Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara outside the rain-swept hospital. Tension hangs heavy as paramedics and police cordon the area.

Gojo: "This is Special Grade territory. Remember: retreat if you must."

The trio enters a world of flickering fluorescent lights and the stench of rot.

Scene 2 — Discovery in Darkness

Yuji, determined, leads the way. Megumi conjures Divine Dogs to map cursed energy while Nobara clutches her hammer, uncertain but resolved.

Suddenly, the floor splits and the group is separated. Nobara vanishes behind falling rubble.

Scene 3 — Special Grade Curse Unleashed

In the ruined maternity ward, Yuji and Megumi confront a towering, multi-eyed spirit emanating poisonous dread. Its grotesque laughter shakes the walls.

Yuji throws himself into battle, fists bleeding with effort. Megumi's shikigami swarm, but they too falter.

Yuji shouts for Megumi to rescue Nobara while he holds the monster off. Desperate strength flows inside him, echoing his promise to Wasuke.

Scene 4 — Reckoning and Sacrifice

Nobara struggles beneath debris, her nails and curse energy her only hope. She fights from the shadows, determined not to be counted out.

Meanwhile, Megumi pushes past his boundaries, unleashing a flurry of shikigami in creative combinations—proving himself in the crucible of terror.

Yuji's body absorbs punishment. As he's hurled into a wall, his grip fails. The curse towers overhead.

Scene 5 — Victory in Unity

Freed, Nobara rejoins, channeling raw pain into a hammer strike. Megumi coordinates his Divine Dogs to pin the curse's limbs. Yuji summons his last ounce of will to deliver a devastating punch fueled by his bond to friends and his grandfather's words.

In a final chorus, their attacks combine—nail, fist, and shadow, breaking through the curse's core.

Ending Scene — Dawn and Survival

Bloodied and exhausted, all three emerge to Gojo's applause as dawn begins to paint the sky.

Friendship endures where victory comes at great cost. Not one life lost—this time.

Episōdē 5: Curse Womb Must Die ||

Prologue

The ruined hospital hallway is thick with dust and dread. The curse womb's destruction should have spelled the end, but evil leaves echoes—and some curses refuse to die quietly.

Scene 1 — The Awakening

Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara stagger through debris, only to realize the hospital is warping—walls twist, doors distort, the curse's energy still saturates the air.

Suddenly, the curse reemerges, more monstrous and sadistic than before, form shifting and regenerating, laughing in grotesque joy.

Yuji throws himself into the fray while Megumi frantically searches for Nobara, who is missing behind a collapsed barrier.

Scene 2 — True Special Grade

With Megumi and Nobara separated, Yuji faces the curse alone—a fight beyond his strength. Blood spatters the broken tiles, and Yuji realizes: no ordinary attack will work.

Sukuna stirs in Yuji, voice cold and tempting: “Let me out, vessel. Give me control, and I’ll end this.”

Yuji hesitates, knowing the danger, but with no other way, he relents.

Scene 3 — Sukuna Unleashed

Sukuna emerges, marks blossoming over Yuji’s skin. The king of curses laughs, savors violence, and shreds the monster in a single, contemptuous blow.

But he does not return the body. Sukuna stands alone, exulting in freedom, taking sadistic pleasure in the chaos.

Scene 4 — Megumi’s Stand

Megumi finds Nobara, battered but alive. They regroup, but Sukuna blocks their escape, sinister and amused.

Sukuna: "Let's see your resolve, Zenin. Show me what Jujutsu sorcerers are made of."

Megumi squares off, calling forth every ounce of his skill and shikigami. The fight is desperate, and Megumi is pushed past his limits—displaying surprising cunning even as he's battered down.

Scene 5 — Struggle for Control

Yuji battles for dominance within. Memories of Wasuke, his friends, and his promise push him to reclaim his body. Sukuna's grip falters, and Yuji seizes control, collapsing with exhaustion.

Megumi limps to his side, gratitude and concern flickering in eyes usually cold.

Ending Scene — The Cost of Survival

Outside at dawn, paramedics rush to treat the wounded. Gojo joins the battered trio, pride shadowed by worry.

The price of sorcery is paid in scars, but their resolve is tested—and stronger than ever.

Episode 6: After Rain

Prologue

Raindrops trace lazy paths down the window panes at Jujutsu Tech, the storm finally spent. For Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara, survival comes with new wounds and heavier questions. The world outside moves on, but inside, the weight of recent battles lingers.

Scene 1 — Infirmary Silence

Yuji lies in bed, bandaged and pale. Nobara sits nearby, window open to the cleansing rain. Megumi stands guard. Gojo steps quietly in, softer than usual.

Gojo: "You survived hell. Take pride in that."

He jokes about Yuji's hard head and offers sweets, humor as medicine for battered spirits.

Scene 2 — Signs of Recovery

Yuji drifts between sleep and waking. In his dreams, Wasuke's words echo, mingled with Sukuna's mocking laughter.

When he wakes, the tension breaks—Nobara, ever dry, offers, "You look worse than death." Megumi grins, relief masked by teasing.

The trio eats together, grateful just to breathe and rest.

Scene 3 — Mourning and Acceptance

Later, the three discuss those they failed to save. Yuji wonders if their victories matter. Megumi reassures, "We did more than most could." Nobara, ever the steel, adds, "Make it matter by fighting harder next time."

Gojo chimes in, energetic again. "Focus on what you learned!"

Scene 4 — Daily Life Returns

Slowly, routine settles in. Nobara studies curse techniques, hammer beside her. Megumi trains in the courtyard, shikigami swirling. Yuji walks the halls, Sukuna's mark a silent reminder.

They gather in the common room, watching the rain end and sunlight break through clouds.

Nobara: "Anyone else tired of hospitals?"

Yuji laughs, full and genuine; Megumi hides a smile.

Ending Scene — Rooftop Resolve

All three watch the city from the roof, sunset glowing gold. Gojo appears, "Next mission will come soon. Rest while you can—your path only gets steeper."

Together, Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara face the horizon, friendship their new armor.

Episode 7: Assault

Prologue

Midnight cloaks Tokyo in restless silence. Deep in unassuming corners—diners, alleys, old subways—a new threat gathers, drawing together both cursed spirits and humans who would reshape the world for themselves.

Scene 1 — Diner of Monsters

{Mahito — Young-looking, blue-grey hair, stitched smile, eyes filled with childlike malice. A curse who revels in human suffering, able to reshape both flesh and soul.}

Mahito sits with a salaryman inside a neon-lit diner. His finger traces the man's cheek—and with a whispered promise, flesh twists, transforming into something monstrous.

At his side are {Jogo — Volcanic head, short fuse, eyes burning with hatred.}, and {Hanami — Formed of bark and blossoms, ancient, eyes like knots in wood.}

Together, they plan an assault, voices filled with glee and contempt for human frailty.

Scene 2 — Sorcerer Strategy

Jujutsu Tech is tense. Gojo and faculty meet: "Mahito's behind the spikes in deaths. The enemy plans, learns, adapts."

Yuji, Nobara, and Megumi eavesdrop, feeling the world shift under their feet.

Scene 3 — Into Tokyo's Underworld

{Nanami Kento — In his thirties, tall and stern with a businesslike manner. Ex-salaryman turned jujutsu sorcerer. His technique is clinical, his approach strictly pragmatic.}

Yuji pairs off with Nanami, shadowing him through wet alleys and into the city's depths.

Yuji: "Are you scared?"

Nanami: "If you aren't scared, you aren't human."

They descend into the sewers. The stench is overwhelming—rotting bodies twisted by Mahito's curse.

Scene 4 — Confrontation

Mahito appears, floating over blood-slick floors, reshaping his own body with gleeful abandon. Nanami and Yuji engage, blows sharp and desperate. Mahito warps limbs into weapons.

Nanami's Ratio Technique slices curses with mathematical precision, Yuji pounds spirits into vapor. But Mahito laughs, regenerates, and toys with them.

Nanami orders Yuji to retreat if needed. Yuji bristles, torn between courage and fear.

Scene 5 — Aftermath

Mahito slips away, voice echoing: "Next time, I'll shape something far more interesting."

Nanami helps Yuji to his feet, silent approval communicated with a nod.

Above, thunder rolls. The darkness promises more battles, and Yuji steels himself for what must come.

Episōdē 8: Bōrēdōm

Prologue

Tokyo is quiet but uneasy—after battle, there is always a lull. Students at Jujutsu Tech use the peace to reflect, recover, and contend with boredom's strange power to unsettle hearts and ambitions.

Scene 1 — School Lounge, Strange Calm

Yuji lounges on a worn-out sofa, munching on vending machine snacks.

Nobara files her nails, daring Megumi to criticize her form.

Megumi reads quietly, absorbing himself in a thick paperback.

Gojo bursts in, “You brats look peaceful—that’s always a bad sign!”

He drops colorful tickets onto the table. “Tomorrow: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event. Rival battles, silly rituals, and the best drama you’ll ever get!”

Scene 2 — Faculty Strategy

{Utahime Iori — Calm, elegant, teal hair, wearing a kimono. A teacher at Kyoto Jujutsu Tech, known for her patience and sharp tactical mind.}

Gojo teases Utahime as they coordinate event details. She fends him off with gentle wit.

Principal Yaga helps create team lists and boundaries. Energy is high and nerves sharper still.

Scene 3 — The Kyoto Arrival

The first-years step off a bullet train into a campus blossoming with cherry trees.

{Aoi Todo — Towering, muscular, boisterous. Known for his strength and emotional fervor, especially regarding his peculiar ideal of friendship.}

Todo confronts Yuji and Megumi. “What kind of women do you like, Itadori?!”

Yuji stammers: “Tall, with a big butt?”

Todo erupts in joy—immediate best friends.

{Mai Zenin — Tall, cold-eyed, carries a revolver. Driven by rivalry with her sister and fierce independence.}

Mai balks at Nobara. Their tension sparks, a promise of future combat.

Scene 4 — Casual Clashes and Alliances

Training grounds simmer with small battles. Nobara and Mai trade insults and blows.

Yuji and Todo high-five mid-combat, their bond sealed.

{Panda — Giant, upbeat, gentle humor, Jujutsu student and talking panda.}

Panda arm-wrestles Kyoto's Mechamaru to a draw.

Sun paints gold across the grounds—a day of rivalries, alliances, and comic relief.

Scene 5 — Evening Anticipation

The Tokyo trio gather in a garden under lanterns. Worries and ambitions build. Tomorrow, competition begins—and everyone knows it's more than just a game.

Gojo observes from a distance, eyes glinting with secret plans.

Episode 9: Small Fry and Reverse Retribution

Prologue

Morning breaks over Kyoto, crackling with anticipation. The Sister School Exchange Event begins—a legendary rivalry, but also a stage for new alliances and the awakening of greater threats.

Scene 1 — Exchange Event Launch

Teams are briefed under blooming cherry trees and waving banners. The contest: exorcise a spirit hidden within the grounds, or outlast the rivals.

Gojo rings the start bell. Students explode outward—sprints, curses, laughter, tactical plans zigzagging through the crowd.

Scene 2 — Team Panda and Toge

{Toge Inumaki — Slim, silver-haired. Wears a scarf to cover the runes on his skin: his words themselves are cursed energy, wielding tremendous power. Speaks mostly in rice ball ingredients to avoid accidental harm.}

Panda and Toge team up against Kyoto's Mechamaru—a hulking, weapon-stuffed cyborg puppet.

Panda's acrobatics meet Mechamaru's firepower, and Toge's "Sleep!" curse speech immobilizes machinery, but strains his own throat with the effort.

Scene 3 — Yuji vs. Todo

Yuji clashes with Todo, the battle a blend of ferocious blows and unexpected mutual respect.

Todo's "Boogie Woogie" technique suddenly swaps places, keeping both fighters on edge. Each learns from the other—fists meet in a symphony of thunder.

Todo: "Don't disappoint me, best friend!"

Yuji, panting: "I'm just getting started!"

Scene 4 — Nobara vs. Mai

Nobara and Mai duel behind the old gym, nails vs. bullets.

Mai's gun flashes, Nobara dodges, using resonance to disrupt projectiles. Verbal sparring is sharp—Nobara's ambition nipping at Mai's pride.

Scene 5 — Megumi and Momo

Megumi joins combat with {Momo Nishimiya — Airy, pink hair, rides a broom, small but formidable.}

Shikigami clash with wind, strategy meets magic as the event grows wilder.

Scene 6 — The Cursed Spirit Revealed

A grotesque curse erupts from the shade of a crumbling shrine—dozens of mouths, arms, and a sickly aura. Rival teams unite: Yuji, Todo, Panda, Toge, Megumi, Nobara—each attacks, spells and blows tearing at shadow and flesh.

Victory comes by collective effort—rivals falling side by side, bruised but smiling.

Ending Scene — Mutual Respect

As night illuminates the campus with lanterns, Tokyo and Kyoto students share laughter, food, and stories—hard-won respect and new friendships swelling under the stars.

Episode 10: Idle Transfiguration

Prologue

Midnight shadows twist through Tokyo's underground—a forbidden laboratory where pain itself is reinvented. The King of Cruelty is bored, and boredom breeds new horrors.

Scene 1 — Mahito's Playground

Mahito wanders among kidnapped humans in a flickering, green-lit basement. His fingers dance, souls distorting beneath his touch. Bodies twist and mutate—screams echo, the air thick with suffering.

{Junpei Yoshino — Thin, sad-eyed, teenage outcast. Bullied, obsessed with jellyfish, smart but deeply lonely.}

Junpei becomes Mahito's latest experiment, haunted and angry at the world.

Scene 2 — Nanami Investigates

Nanami and Yuji scour Tokyo's backstreets for curse traces. Yuji's spirit is heavy—recent battles carved empathy and fear into his heart.

Nanami interviews locals, gathering stories of disappearances and nightmares. Blood, clues, and fragments point always to Mahito.

Scene 3 — Confrontation and Terror

Yuji and Nanami track Mahito to a dripping sewer. Mahito grins, “Is pain not beautiful? A soul so easily shaped?”

Nanami attacks, Ratio Technique slicing arm and shadow. Mahito retaliates—arms spearing, flesh morphing, laughter bouncing in darkness.

Yuji launches in—a collision of fury and hope. They fight as a team, but Mahito bends, reforms, toys with his own torment.

Nanami: “Retreat!”

They barely escape, smoke and bones closing behind them.

Scene 4 — Reflection and Recovery

Over quiet tea, Nanami tells Yuji: “Courage isn’t the absence of fear—it’s moving forward through it.”

Yuji listens, determined—pain a teacher, not a prison.

Ending Scene — Mahito’s Schemes

Elsewhere, Mahito surveys new mutations, hungry for larger games. Tokyo is changing—more curses, more conflict, more boredom, even more danger.

Episōdē 11: Nārōsh-Mīndēd

Prologue

Dawn breaks over a restless Tokyo. Rumors of disappearances grow. In stifling classrooms and forgotten corners, the line between curse and human blurs—anger and loneliness twist into something unrecognizable.

Scene 1 — Junpei at School

Junpei Yoshino endures another day of bullying. He drifts through the halls, invisible to teachers, a target in every crowd.

At home, he rewatches his favorite jellyfish documentaries—marveling at beauty and danger, placid and deadly in equal measure.

Mahito finds him outside the cinema, offering comfort and companionship—twisted, but genuine.

Scene 2 — Mahito's Manipulation

Mahito befriends Junpei, fueling anger against his tormentors. “Humans can be monsters,” Mahito muses. Junpei, desperate for belonging, listens and begins to change.

Yuji, following leads from Nanami, glimpses Junpei but can’t bridge the widening gulf.

Scene 3 — The Trap is Set

Junpei’s rage grows black and heavy. At school, using powers awakened by Mahito, he unleashes jellyfish shikigami on his bullies, filling the halls with chaos and terror.

Yuji intervenes, pleading, “You don’t have to be alone. I’ll be your friend!”

But Mahito appears, darkness rippling through the classroom, delighting in suffering.

Scene 4 — Tragedy Strikes

Mahito, cold and careless, transforms Junpei’s body with a touch. Junpei, twisting and screaming, becomes a mutated, suffering creature.

Yuji witnesses it all—he screams in fury and sorrow, unable to save his would-be friend. Nanami battles Mahito, determined, his own wounds deepening.

Scene 5 — Vow of Vengeance

Fury and heartbreak erupt within Yuji. Sukuna's power flickers, but Yuji refuses to give in to revenge or despair.

As Mahito disappears into the night, Yuji kneels by Junpei, tears streaming.

He vows, “Never again—no friend will die because of me.”

Megumi and Nobara arrive, silent support beside him.

Ending Scene — Stronger Resolve

Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara stand in the ruins of the school, bonds forged in pain now the source of their greatest strength. The city grows more dangerous, but their resolve shines brighter than despair.

Episode 12: To You, Someday

Prologue

The world outside feels hushed after tragedy. Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara are changed by loss—Junpei's death weighs heavy. Yet, even as grief lingers, hope must be chosen again; a day of reckoning always follows the night.

Scene 1 — Hospital Mourning

Yuji sits at Junpei's bedside, silent as the hospital's rain-dark windows. Nobara and Megumi appear, and without words, offer support.

Yuji's fists tremble against the sheets; tears fall without restraint.

Nobara places a gentle hand on his shoulder, Megumi quietly reassures: "You don't have to carry it alone."

Their friendship, raw and real, is forged by sorrow.

Scene 2 — Mahito on the Move

Meanwhile, Mahito slips through cold alleys, satisfied and intrigued by the pain he's caused.

He plots with Jogo and Hanami: now is the time to unite all curses and further assault Jujutsu Tech.

They blend into the city's dusk, malicious energy growing.

Scene 3 — Gojo's Guidance

Gojo gathers the trio after Junpei's funeral, his tone grave but encouraging.

"Loss is the weight of your heart—and your power. Remember, fight for something bigger than revenge."

Gojo initiates training outside. Yuji fights with renewed, desperate resolve, Megumi's tactics sharpen, Nobara's nails whistle through the air.

Their teamwork forges forward—sweat glistens, breaths catch, and pain becomes strength.

Scene 4 — Quiet Night, Promise for Tomorrow

After training, Yuji sits beneath the stars on the school roof. Gojo joins him, calming yet playful.

Gojo: “On this path, your soul matters. Cherish your people.”

Yuji remembers Junpei, and makes a silent promise beneath the endless sky.

Below, Nobara and Megumi wait for him, loyal and steady.

Scene 5 — Sunrise, Moving Forward

Together, as dawn breaks, they walk the ancient campus steps. Music rises faintly as the sun touches stone—Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara now move forward with their deepest bond yet.

Their hearts repaired—a new journey begins.

Episode 13: Tomorrow

Prologue

A new day glimmers on Jujutsu Tech, the pain of recent losses blending with anticipation. The air hums with energy—students and faculty alike brace themselves for the Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event, a tradition both celebratory and perilous.

Scene 1 — Morning Preparations

Yuji wakes early, heart pounding memories of Junpei tempered by resolve. Downstairs, Nobara sharpens her nails and Megumi feeds his shikigami—each one quietly steeling themselves for what's to come.

Gojo appears, bright-eyed as ever. “Don’t be late! Kyoto expects drama—show them what Tokyo’s best can do.”

Scene 2 — Train to Kyoto

The team boards a sleek bullet train, eyes darting over schedules and strategies. Yuji cracks jokes to ease tension. Nobara’s focus is ice; Megumi broods, always planning.

Gojo teases Utahime over the phone, promising Tokyo will “bring fireworks.”

Scene 3 — Kyoto Campus Unveiled

The Kyoto school bursts with spring blossoms, banners, and a festival air. Rival students watch as Tokyo’s trio arrives, respect and challenge mixed in hungry glances.

Yuji meets Panda in the courtyard; they wrestle with playful ferocity. Nobara and Mai glare daggers, the spark of rivalry clear. Megumi and Kamo exchange nods, steel meeting steel.

Scene 4 — Pre-Battle Rituals

Principal Gakuganji of Kyoto (old, severe, shamisen in lap) gives a gruff welcome. Teams size each other up—Todo loud and intimidating, Miwa grinning shyly, Momo floating above on her broom.

Training matches burst into spontaneous competition—nails whip through air, Earth shakes with Panda's strikes, tactics drafted with every spar.

Scene 5 — Evening Reflection

Under a lantern-lit tree, the Tokyo trio gathers. The past aches, but tomorrow promises redemption.

Megumi: "Let's show them who we are."

Nobara: "Let's win."

Yuji: "Let's make Junpei proud."

Ending Scene — Awaiting Tomorrow

Night deepens as the moon rises over Kyoto. Down corridors and behind closed doors, rivals strategize.

On a rooftop, Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara face the wind, hearts racing for what tomorrow holds.

Episode 14: Kyōto Sister School Exchange Event - Group Battle 0

Prologue

The morning buzzes with excitement at Kyoto Jujutsu Tech, every student and faculty member ready for the opening ceremony of the Exchange Event. Rivalry, respect, and nerves churn amid banners and blossom.

Scene 1 — Introductions and Rivalries

Tokyo's trio stands at attention. Kyoto's lineup faces them with equal determination:

{Mai Zenin — Tall, fierce, ice-blue eyes, quick with both wit and her revolver. Estranged from her sister, Maki.}

{Aoi Todo — Massive, energetic, with a deep need for friendship and battle alike.}

{Mechamaru — A hulking mechanical puppet, housing the soul of Kokichi Muta, frail but brilliant.}

{Momo Nishimiya, Miwa Kasumi, Noritoshi Kamo — Each with a unique technique and their own hidden stories.}

Principal Gakuganji gives a gruff speech, Gojo playfully heckling him in front of everyone. Utahime and Yaga keep the peace as anticipation climbs.

Scene 2 — The Battle Opens

A warning siren marks the start; teams dash into the forested battleground. Cursed spirits lurk between fallen timber and shrines, students leap into skirmishes and tactical retreats.

Yuji and Todo lock eyes—admiration and challenge, a promise of violence and respect.

Mai fires shots at Maki; Panda and Mechamaru clash steel and circuits; Miwa and Nobara joust nails against swordplay.

Scene 3 — Early Alliances and Surprises

Megumi partners with Panda and Toge. Kamo leads a squad toward the spirit's rumored den. Spells echo off ancient trees, strategies evolve mid-combat.

Kyoto and Tokyo sorcerers catch glimpses of one another's pain and pride. Small alliances break as battles intensify.

Scene 4 — Shadows Deepen

Amid chaos, an unexpected curse appears, stronger than anticipated. Teams must adapt; rivalries momentarily put aside for survival.

Ending Scene — Nightfall Over Rival Schools

As dusk falls, battered teams retreat to campus, plotting tomorrow's contests under raucous lantern light.

The promise remains: only the strongest and best-prepared will thrive.

Episode 15: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event - Group Battle 1

Prologue

Morning fog rolls over the Kyoto campus. Battle plans are sharpened, wounds tended, and alliances reconsidered. Rival teams brace for a second clash—each determined to prove their worth.

Scene 1 — Lineups and Tension

In the gym, Tokyo and Kyoto students stretch, strategize, and trade silent glances. Panda offers a fist bump to Mechamaru while Nobara polishes nails, eyes set on Miwa.

Gojo, posted as referee, grins and reminds everyone, “Keep your heads! Losing isn’t as dangerous as losing your temper.”

Scene 2 — The Forest Arena

As the buzzer sounds, groups spread through tangled woods. Megumi and Kamo size each other up, shikigami circling, arrows nocked. Panda tackles Mechamaru with playful energy, but each hit is carefully measured.

Meanwhile, Mai stalks behind the shrub line, revolver drawn, shadowing Nobara and Maki. Nobara leaps out, nails whistling—a dance of steel and curse energy.

Scene 3 — Unlikely Partnerships

Yuji and Todo collide in hand-to-hand combat, but in mid-fight, find themselves suddenly deep in conversation.

Todo, excited: “If she’s tall with a big butt, we can be friends!”

Yuji, sheepish: “We’ve already established this!”

Their laughter bursts above punches, turning rivals into comrades for a moment.

Scene 4 — Curses Intervene

A new, grotesque spirit ambushes Mechamaru and Toge; chaos erupts as both sides are forced to unite, powers blending to survive.

Mechamaru fires missiles; Panda tackles from above. Toge croaks, “Salmon!”—freezing the curse’s advance.

Scene 5 — Victory and Recovery

Winners don’t gloat; losers vow improvement. Gojo cheers all, declaring, “Today, everyone’s a winner who survives!”

Ending Scene — Mutual Respect, New Rivalries

As evening haze settles, teams compare injuries and tactics. Friendships form across battle lines; respect is earned with each bruise and laugh.

Tomorrow’s challenge, and the true threat from lurking curses, looms heavier still.

Episode 16: Kyoto Sister School Exchange Event - Group Battle 2

Prologue

Sunrise streaks Kyoto with bands of gold. Bruises and aches have settled, but determination glows stronger in every student's face. Day three pushes all to their limits—in skill, strategy, and spirit.

Scene 1 — Strategic Moves

Megumi maps the forest, sending shikigami ahead. Nobara and Maki devise flanking tactics. Yuji keeps Todo distracted with philosophy and rapid-fire punches.

Mai and Miwa strategize over terrain advantages, both eager to redeem yesterday's setbacks.

Scene 2 — New Techniques Unleashed

Kamo's blood manipulation technique dances red through the sunlight, sharp arrows pinning shadows.

Megumi adapts, summoning multiple animals at once—a swirl of ink and energy that keeps rivals at bay.

Momo swoops above, broom twisting, scouting for weak spots. Nobara intercepts with flying nails—mid-air fireworks of cursed energy.

Panda glances at Mechamaru, recalculating approaches after last round's heavy blows.

Scene 3 — Bonds of Respect

Yuji and Todo invent combos mid-battle. Laughter and combat mix—their friendship deepens as rivalry clarifies strengths.

Maki and Mai, sisters in conflict, push each other with brutal honesty, trading insults with every strike. Each discovers respect hidden in rivalry.

Scene 4 — Spirit Attack Escalates

Suddenly, a massive curse disrupts the balance. Students put aside old battles—fighting back-to-back, skill and technique blending for survival.

Gojo watches from the sidelines, eyes shining with pride and anticipation.

Scene 5 — Lessons Learned

After the dust settles, wounds are treated. Seconds, not victories, are cherished—each sorcerer stronger for surviving together.

Megumi: “Rival does not mean enemy.”

Nobara: “And losing is never the end.”

Ending Scene — Campfire Camaraderie

Night finds Tokyo and Kyoto students swapping stories around a campfire, roasted sweet potatoes passing between bandaged hands, laughter rising into the stars.

Tomorrow brings the final challenge—a test greater than any yet faced.

Episode 17: Kyōto Sister School Exchange Event - Group Battle 3

Prologue

Gray clouds linger as the final day of the Exchange Event dawns. Sorcerers from Tokyo and Kyoto have tested their bodies and souls—but the true challenge demands unity against the unknown.

Scene 1 — Final Formations

Yuji, Megumi, Nobara, and Panda review their tactics quickly, nerves taut but intention clear.

Across the field, Todo hypes up his team—his energy contagious. Mai sharpens her focus, Miwa steadies her blade, Mechamaru runs diagnostics.

Gojo, referee and provocateur, calls, “Last round—make it memorable!”

Scene 2 — Friends and Foes Alike

Fighting begins. Yuji and Todo’s blows thunder, the rhythm almost musical. Megumi faces Kamo—blood and shadow weaving a spectacle. Nobara intercepts Momo’s aerial maneuvers with well-placed nails and quick wit.

Toge and Panda tag-team Mechamaru, showing their growth since yesterday’s trials.

Scene 3 — True Cursed Threat

Suddenly, a colossal cursed spirit breaches the barrier—a danger so vast that it shocks all combatants into pause. Gojo instantly leaps to contain panic, signaling for Tokyo and Kyoto to work as one.

Sorcerers combine efforts—Yuji with Todo, Megumi with Kamo, Nobara assisting Miwa, all powers blending. Curses are battered, techniques pushed to breaking.

In a crucial moment, Todo guides Yuji to land a devastating blow, declaring, “This is the strength of friendship!”

Scene 4 — Aftermath and Respect

The curse falls; exhaustion and laughter mingle. Rival teams congratulate and console, wounds counted as badges of honor.

Gojo announces results, but far more valuable than rankings is the trust now earned among Tokyo and Kyoto alike.

Ending Scene — The Farewell

As students board trains back to their schools, promises are made to meet again. Under Kyoto's waning light, everyone walks a little taller—for the future, for friends, for those lost and those yet to come.

Episōdē 18: Sāgē

Prologue

The Kyoto Exchange Event concludes, leaving the Tokyo and Kyoto sorcerers physically battered and emotionally changed. With the adrenaline faded, heavier questions emerge about curses, survival, and the true meaning of power.

Scene 1 — Return to Jujutsu Tech

Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara step onto Tokyo's campus, welcomed by Gojo with pastries and praise.

Panda regales staff with stories; Toge mutters rice ball ingredients contentedly. Recovery is slow but camaraderie strong.

Scene 2 — Meeting Master Tengen

Gojo calls Yuji and Megumi for a special lesson. He explains the importance of Master Tengen—the ancient, immortal sorcerer who maintains the school's barrier and much of Japan's stability.

They hike into hidden tunnels beneath Jujutsu Tech, faintly lit by cursed lanterns.

{Master Tengen — Ancient, nearly featureless form, radiating stability and serene, overwhelming power.}

Tengen imparts wisdom—not just technique but the heart behind the fight: “True power is protection, not destruction. Wisdom is what shapes strength.”

Yuji and Megumi listen, changed by the depth of history and responsibility laid out before them.

Scene 3 — Secrets and Dangers

Tengen shares grave warnings: old curses stir, Mahito and his allies plot, Sukuna's power lurks. The Tokyo trio must remain vigilant—together.

Gojo leads a brisk training session. Nobara sharpens nails; Megumi expands his summoning repertoire. Yuji meditates for self-control, voices—both Wasuke and Sukuna—guiding and goading.

Scene 4 — Friendship and Resolve

Evening falls. Yuji and Megumi discuss Tengen's words over ramen. Nobara admits, "I thought strength meant never hesitating. Turns out, it means knowing why I fight."

Megumi nods. "And fighting for each other."

Ending Scene — A New Sage's Path

Lights flicker across campus; the weight of destiny feels lighter, replaced by shared purpose. Tomorrow brings new threats, but tonight, wisdom and friendship prevail.

Episode 10: Black Flash

Prologue

Night falls on Tokyo, washed with neon and lingering tension. Yuji and his classmates have learned from sages and rivals—but new techniques and bigger battles lurk ahead. Power must be tested by experience.

Scene 1 — Midnight Training

Gojo assembles Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara by the riverside for secret training.

Gojo: “Today, you’ll face Black Flash—a moment when curse energy and combat instinct collide.”

They spar beneath flickering lamps, rivers tumbling nearby. Yuji tries to harness his emotions, Megumi sharpens his focus, Nobara blends force with finesse.

Scene 2 — Technique Unleashed

Gojo demonstrates: his fist explodes with shimmering black energy, time dilating in a fraction of a second—technique and instinct merged.

Yuji attempts the move, failing again and again. Nobara encourages, Megumi suggests tactical shifts. Through determination, Yuji suddenly hits a “Black Flash”—energy cracks through the night, curse spirit vanishing in a blaze.

Joy and pride reverberate among the trio, Gojo grins: “Once you taste that power, you’ll chase mastery forever.”

Scene 3 — Real Mission Begins

A new curse emerges in the city. Megumi leads, strategy in mind; Nobara stakes their approach with confidence.

Yuji channels his newfound technique, combining teamwork and Black Flash—spirits fall one by one.

Scene 4 — Friendship in Victory

That night, the friends share street food under city lights. Laughter, teasing, and talk of future battles; power no longer feels terrifying, but promising.

Ending Scene — Growth and Anticipation

The city pulses. Tomorrow, stronger foes will test their limits, but tonight, the taste of Black Flash and camaraderie lingers sweet on their tongues.

Episodē 20: Nonstandard

Prologue

Tokyo stirs with distant thunder and ever-shifting threats. A mission unlike any before calls Yuji and his classmates to adapt, improvise, and embrace the unpredictable—the “nonstandard” side of sorcery.

Scene 1 — Unusual Mission Briefing

Gojo arrives with a grin. “Today, forget what you know. Each curse is different—some break all the rules.”

Megumi reads the dossier: their target is an aberrant spirit, shifting form, attacking at random.

Yuji cracks his knuckles, Nobara polishes her nails. Excitement washes over anxiety.

Scene 2 — Enter the Nonstandard Curse

They track the curse through old warehouse tunnels. Neon ghosts flicker, barrels rattle, shadows leap unpredictably.

Megumi leads tactics, but standard shikigami attacks fail—the curse splits, reforms, rides air currents.

Yuji lets instinct take over—not technique, but gut and soul. He vaults pipes, redirects energy, and launches a wide Black Flash, altering mid-strike.

Nobara adapts, too—using nails in a circular dance rather than her usual patterns. Megumi fuses two shikigami for a hybrid attack.

Scene 3 — Chaos and Brilliance

Gojo watches gleefully as the team problem-solves under pressure.

Megumi: “Guess we’re learning nonstandard ourselves.”

Together, they create a new combo—Yuji’s split-moment punch, Nobara’s nail-seal, Megumi’s shadow chains. The curse dissipates, conquered not by protocol, but invention.

Scene 4 — Evening Debrief

Gojo treats them to takoyaki, reveling in their ingenuity.

“Remember, creativity wins as often as raw power.”

Laughter, tired smiles—another lesson survived, a new side of magic discovered.

Ending Scene — Inventing Tomorrow

The trio walks home under flickering city lights, eager for challenges still unrevealed, confident in their ability to invent solutions on the fly.

Episode 2: Jujutsu Kōshien

Prologue

Summer heat settles on Kyoto as both Jujutsu Tech campuses reunite—this time not for combat, but for “Jujutsu Koshien,” a parody baseball game. For a brief afternoon, competition is light-hearted, rules are warped, and laughter fills the air.

Scene 1 — Ballpark Rivalry

Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara don baseball uniforms tighter than their usual gear.

Panda stands at home plate, bat in hand, grinning wide.

Todo winds up on the pitcher’s mound, his bellow echoing across the diamond.

Gojo referees with a whistle and cartoonish baseball cap, giddy at the change of pace.

Scene 2 — Chaos on the Field

Maki bunts with sword-like precision. Mai uses a revolver—instead of a bat—to blast the ball skyward.

Toge whispers “Salmon!”—all Kyoto outfielders slump in sleep.

Itadori sprints, slide-tackling home base; Nobara threatens Todo with nails if he blocks her run.

Panda’s super strength sends a grounder through two fences. Mechamaru malfunctions under heat, wheels spinning out.

The rules dissolve—spirit techniques mingle with sportsmanship, chaos replaces order, fun reigns.

Scene 3 — Off the Diamond

Bench players build makeshift banners and heckle rivals with friendly shouts. Momo brings snacks, Miwa keeps the score, Megumi cracks a rare smile.

Gojo’s “penalty dance” for fouls becomes the event’s biggest draw.

Scene 4 — Final Inning and Friendship

As dusk falls, the score hardly matters. A last hit sends Panda and Yuji sliding across home—team victory decided by roars of laughter instead of numbers.

Sweat-soaked, breathless, Tokyo and Kyoto students shake hands. For one day, curses and rivalry fall away; family is forged in play.

Ending Scene — Summer Night Peace

Players collapse on the grass, counting stars and trading stories.

Under the warm night sky, the bonds of sorcery strengthen not through battle, but through joy.

Episode 2: The Origin of Blind Obedience

Prologue

Days after the friendly clash on Kyoto's diamond, a new assignment arrives. Amid the bustle of Tokyo, a deadly mystery blooms—the “Cursed Bridge” incident, where students are lured to their doom by something both old and malicious.

Scene 1 — Briefing and New Tension

Gojo calls Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara to the main hall:

“A rash of deaths at Yasohachi Bridge—victims found twisted, eyes wide with terror. Your mission: trace the origin, break the curse, and don’t become its next target.”

Yuji is eager, Nobara rolls her shoulders. Megumi accepts, troubled—his connection to the location is personal.

Scene 2 — The Bridge at Dusk

Under stormy skies, the trio investigates the bridge. Cursed residue drifts like fog. Megumi stares longer than the others, memory tugging at wounds he rarely reveals. A local officer details family tragedies and warnings of “phantom hands.”

Scene 3 — Unraveling the History

Yuji and Nobara canvass the neighborhood, learning victims all visited the bridge alone, following an eerie compulsion.

Megumi recalls his past:

{Tsumiki Fushiguro — Megumi’s stepsister, kind-hearted and gentle, her fate haunting Megumi’s every action.}

Her brush with the curse still haunts him.

Scene 4 — Nightfall and First Attack

The curse's power escalates at sundown. Black shapes chase the trio across concrete and abandoned sidewalks.

Yuji punches through one specter, Nobara traps another in a circle of nails.

Megumi falters—memories of Tsumiki threaten to overwhelm. But, reminded by friends, he steadies his heart and unleashes a novel shikigami formation, driving back the night's terror.

Ending Scene — The Next Clue

Afterwards, with minor injuries and new resolve, the team deciphers a deeper riddle. The curse is not defeated, just disturbed.

Megumi gazes into the rain, knowing tomorrow will demand even more.

Episōdē 23: Thē Origin ōf Blīnd Obēdiēnē - 2

Prologue

The chill of Yasohachi Bridge persists as Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara scramble for answers. The curse's shadow looms larger—what began as investigation now tests everything they've learned.

Scene 1 — Deeper Into the Mystery

Morning brings new clues—and greater tension. Megumi pores over police files and old case notes, guilt and fear rising. Yuji cracks jokes to relieve stress, Nobara steadies their resolve.

Together, they return to the bridge, the air dense with cursed energy.

Scene 2 — The Bridge's Heart

The team realizes the curse strikes those who hold unresolved resentment. Megumi revisits Tsumiki's accident in painful flashback, driving his urgency to save her and end the cycle.

A malevolent spirit erupts, tendrils whipping through the foggy air. Yuji and Nobara combine attacks, but normal combat fails—the curse feeds on doubt.

Scene 3 — Megumi's Challenge

Megumi steps forward, channeling his darkest memories. He pushes past hesitation, forging a new technique: releasing a previously untested shikigami.

The spirit stumbles, weakened by Megumi's resolve.

Yuji shouts encouragement; Nobara counters the curse's evasions, nails pinning shadow.

Scene 4 — Breaking the Cycle

Megumi, inspired by his bond to Tsumiki and strengthened by friends, unleashes a final, creative attack—blending two shikigami in a hybrid move.

The curse, battered and shrieking, finally dissolves.

Ending Scene — Quiet Aftermath

As dawn breaks, the trio sits in exhausted silence. Megumi gazes at the bridge, hope flickering. Nobara claps his shoulder, Yuji promises, “We’ve got your back.”

Tomorrow, they return for one last sweep—determined to ensure no curse remains, and no loved one is ever lost to blind obedience again.

Episōdē 24: Accōmplicēs

Prologue

Final rain falls on Yasohachi Bridge as dawn breaks—the last chapter of the curse's reign unfolding. Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara face their greatest trial not just in combat, but in what it means to face fear together.

Scene 1 — The Last Confrontation

The trio cleanses the bridge, tracing lingering spiritual residue.

Yuji senses movement—shadows coalesce and a more ferocious curse appears, stronger for having survived previous battles.

Yuji and Nobara attack simultaneously: fists striking, nails flying, both determined to protect Megumi, who now stands at the heart of the curse's origin.

Megumi finally reveals his secret technique—shikigami fusing, waves of energy pulsing through the concrete. The curse reels, then splits, attacking Megumi's core vulnerabilities.

Scene 2 — Fear and Resolve

Flashbacks of Tsumiki's accident and Megumi's childhood race through his mind. Instead of resisting fear, Megumi accepts it, channeling emotion into energy.

Nobara dares the curse closer—"You'll break on us, not the other way!" Yuji roars, refusing to yield, rallying the group's power and will.

Scene 3 — Victory Through Unity

Together, synchronized in purpose, Yuji and Nobara flank and trap the spirit while Megumi delivers the decisive strike. Cursed energy surges, then subsides—the bridge is quiet once again.

Yuji and Nobara collapse beside Megumi; all three exhausted but exhilarated.

Scene 4 — Aftermath and Growth

Later, the trio walks from the bridge, soaking up first sunlight and peace. Megumi thanks his friends for support, promising to face his past head-on.

Nobara jokes, “We expect you to cook dinner now, you know.”

Yuji laughs, heart lighter, Sukuna quiet for now.

The school awaits—a new chapter opening.

Ending Scene — A Fresh Tomorrow

As Tokyo wakes, Yuji, Megumi, and Nobara know they are more than sorcerers—they are accomplices in survival and hope, ready for whatever comes next.